[Fourth indorsement.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY,
BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS,
Washington, D. C., July 10, 1900.

Respectfully forwarded to the Department.

2. Supplemental to the third indorsement, which covers all expenditures made under the cognizance of this bureau at the naval station, Habana, the bureau has the honor to make the following explanatory statement of the use and disposition of material purchased and of the necessity for the expenditures for labor, viz:

3. Labor, pay of clerks, etc., $45,066.70.

Money expended under this head was entirely for sanitary purposes in fumigation and cleaning buildings and repairing sewerage and piping and cleaning grounds. The employment of clerks was for the use of officers attached to the station, both for clerical work and as interpreters.

4. Furniture, etc., $4,297.43.

The furniture was for the use of officers attached to the station, to whom quarters were assigned and receipts taken for same. All the furniture purchased is still on hand, and the portion not in use at the present time is retained for safe-keeping until again required.

5. Fixtures, $2,184.58.

Shades and hangings, lamps, chandeliers, electrical supplies, and plumbing supplies were all purchased for the rooms and houses of officers attached to the station. In the admiralty building and the houses at the navy-yard the lighting apparatus and plumbing had been almost wholly destroyed before being turned over to the naval representative for the United States. The telephones connected the office of the commandant with the navy-yard, and were in such condition as to need repairs. These articles have been expended for the purposes for which purchased.

6. General supplies, $5,052.03.

The articles purchased under the above heading were for general repairs to and disinfection of the houses and grounds of the station, and the health and comfort of the personnel attached thereto, and a proper maintenance of the police force and office records. These articles have been expended for the purposes for which purchased and are still in use.

7. Marine Corps disbursements, $696.88.

Beds and bedding under the above heading were for the use of the marine guard attached to this station, which has been transferred. Upon the transfer of the guard, this property was packed and stored for safe-keeping and is now on hand. Laundry, ice, etc., was expended for the use of the officers and men composing the guard.
